

Who Am I?

I am the man who revolutionized the clothing business in Topeka.

Tomorrow I am going to start a revolution of my own. Tomorrow I want to enlist every able bodied man in Topeka, be he large, small or otherwise, in my $10 army of suit and overcoat buyers.

Men I Can Truly say that were every man who bought one of my suits enlisted in one great army, that army would reach in one straight line four abreast the whole distance from Topeka to Kansas City and then some. There must be some reason for this great army of suit and overcoat buyers coming from my store. Here's the reason in a nutshell, it's because I can sell $20 and $25 suits and overcoats like the ones represented in the illustrations at the extraordinary low price of

And the men are all finding it out. It's an endless chain story. A man buys one of these $20 or $25 suit overcoat value from me for $10.00. He's proud of his bargain and he tells his friend, his friend tells his friend, his friend tells his friend, and so it goes.

For Thanksgiving I have added $25 suits and overcoats. Every one of these suits and overcoats are tailored in the height of fashion, made by the best clothing manufacturers in the world, from the very best materials obtainable, and every suit and overcoat is an actual $20 or $25 value but for a special Thanksgiving offering. Offering tomorrow I am going to sell them for less than half their actual value.

IN FEDERAL COURT

Who's Who in Mexico, One of Leading Problems Today.

Eight Defendants Held for Selling Liquor in State.

Who's who in Mexico probably would have been settled at the special term of the United States district court, which opened today at the federal building, if the case involving the interesting tangle had not been continued until the January term of the court. The case in question was that of the Carranza estate, Sonora, Mexico, against Senator J. M. Rhodes of Marshall county, Kansas, to recover money damages on 69 head of cattle that Senator Rhodes bought in Arizona over a year ago.

W. F. Guthrie, attorney for Senator Rhodes asked the court for a continuance of the case until additional facts can be obtained. According to the information in the case the cattle originally belonged to Villa adherents in Mexico. When Carranza troops came into power they took the cattle and told the people that if they would give a bill of sale for the cattle they would be given part of the proceeds. The Carranza troops told the people that if no bill of sale was given the cattle would be killed and fed to the soldiers, who were hungry.

In order not to lose all the Villa adherents gave a bill of sale, expecting to get part of the money. They did not get any money and when the Carranza troops returned to power a damage suit was instituted in order to recover on the property which it is claimed was stolen in spite of the bill of sale.

The suit was brought in the United States district court because of diversity of citizenship and calls for $2,700 damages. W. A. Quant, a Topeka lawyer, represented the plaintiff in the case.

Dismiss Several Cases.
Several cases were dismissed at the opening session of the court this morning. Eight criminal cases remain for trial. The defendants are all charged with selling liquor without a government license.

This afternoon Thomas Stump of Topeka, and Mike Bodenshtz will be tried. The other cases are those of Martin Fitch, Lewis Malloy, Fitz Warner, Anna Nebaur and August Schmidt, all of Leavenworth, and J. M. Lutes of Scranton. Besides these criminal cases several civil cases will be tried by Judge Pollock.

TABLE TALK AT THE COMMERCIAL CLUB.

How persistency will win was illustrated in the following story told this noon at one of the tables at the Commercial club:

A little girl had been tucked away cozily in her bed by her mother and the mother was almost asleep when the little girl said:

"Mother, I want a drink of water."

"The mother told the little girl to keep still but the child persisted:

"Mother, I want a drink of water."

"If you don't keep still I'll come in and spank you," the mother said.

After about five minutes the little girl piped out:

"Mamma, when you come in to spank me will you bring me a drink of water?"

She got her drink.

Although George Godfrey Moore says that E. L. Overton is a poor auto driver the fact stands out that Overton's car was the first car to reach Topeka on the return trip from Osgood City last Saturday afternoon. Overton drove his car from Burlington, a distance of 28 miles, to Topeka in an hour. At times he had his machine going at 45 miles an hour. It was some ride.

It cost L. C. Rahn, the shirt man, a perfectly good derby hat to make the booster trip Saturday. Rahn was occupying the back seat of Overton's car when a particularly bad bump in the road made him strike his head. He came down his derby was cracked in several places.

At a meeting of the ways and means committee of the club this noon it was decided to put on a final membership campaign tomorrow. Special attention will be paid to the big business houses of the city. Henry Auerbach, E. H. Crosby, E. L. Copeland, W. W. Whitney, George Guild, Charles Adams and Charles Elliott will make up a special committee for this work.

SCHILDRET'S ORCHESTRA

With stage appearance against them, Schildret's Hungarian orchestra played its way into the favor of a good audience at the high school auditorium Saturday night and kept the listeners tense and still during a long program.

The numbers on the program were a revelation of understanding of what people really liked and enjoyed. Constantly intermingled with the classic were little sketches with a lilt and tunefulness that carried memories of the audience back to light operas that have achieved national successes.

The execution and tone were as much as could be wished for and the generosity of the six piece orchestra was unlimited. The leader, playing the flute, the violinist, a pupil of Kube-like, and the pianist were artists in their line, and the whole program was an example of what enthusiasm and fervor can do towards carrying away an audience.
